Event Overview

The most edible time of the year, Arizona Restaurant Week (ARW) is making its annual return in May and September 2023, sending diners on a 10-day tasting tour throughout the state. It's when eateries offer a prix-fixe dinner menu for $33, $44 or $55 per person or per couple, giving locals (and visitors) the change to channel their inner foodie and finally try that restaurant on their wish list.

ARW is produced by the ARA with the primary goals of increasing consumption, fostering innovation and inspiring consumer confidence in our restaurant members, ARW participants and event sponsors – because after all, you are where you eat!

Savor the Success

Both Arizona Restaurant Weeks garnered over $1,500,000 in 2022 through a combination of editorial coverage, local, regional and national advertising, and various marketing promotion initiatives. This earned media is pushing traffic directly to our website, where our sponsors have a presence.

ARW's marketing efforts target consumers interested in food, beverages and travel and have a reach nationwide. Take advantage of the week's extensive marketing and social media platforms working closely with the association to create special promo codes, contests and messaging for maximum exposure to fans and attendees.

All companies and brands receive personalized attention from the Association and restaurant week campaign team to ensure that proposals, event activations and marketing opportunities are customized to fit the needs of each sponsor maximizing the experience and value.

ARW Sponsor Alumni

Marketing Initiatives

These strategically planned campaigns ensure ARW is not only grabbing the attention of hungry consumers but are also used to as platforms to gain your brand extra attention. Our ARW sponsors are always included, where applicable, across media placements, in PR efforts and on our printed event materials such as check stuffers and posters.

Advertising/Public Relations Campaign

ARW is supported by a comprehensive public relations campaign that includes media relations, promotions and community outreach. It is important that we have Chef's and restaurateurs that are willing to appear on TV segments and give quotes for print interviews to help spread the word for ARW.

In addition to our earned media exposure, a well-rounded media plan is executed leading up to and during the ARW events. In the past we have utilized TV, radio, out of home bill-boards, Arizona Republic, advanced digital tactics and other mediums to build brand awareness for the event.

Our media campaigns typically launch about a month out from the start of the event to begin building brand awareness for the event and continue through the first week of restaurant week to act as a reminder for diners!

Digital Media Campaigns

An online marketing campaign is designed to reach ARW's regional markets. This campaign includes the purchase of banner ads on websites related to food, outreach to consumers who frequent restaurants and retargeting to those consumers who have been on our ARW website in the past. Our goal is to spread brand awareness and push consumers to make reservations in the weeks leading up to the event while tapping those last-minute diners during the week, encouraging them to dine out!

Social Media Promotions

We actively use our social media channels to reach our loyal foodie fans. We offer tips on navigating restaurant week, announcing newly registered restaurant partners and offer social giveaways to keep our fans attention leading up to and during the events.

Inclusion in Restaurant Tool Kit

Registered (and paid) participants will be given access to promotional posters and check stuffers which will be delivered on a first come, first serve basis, to their restaurants who have requested them during registration no later than 30 days prior to the event start date.

Our ARW sponsors are included on these posters and check stuffers as an additional vehicle for exposure amongst consumers and restaurateurs.
